Excavation begins at Talakad ancient site

Mysuru, Dec. 12 (RK&BCT)- The State Archaeology Department has begun excavation in and around the historic and ancient site of Talakad looking for clues about earlier human habitation. The place is well-known for historical monuments that date back to 5th Century AD. Gangas were in power there then.

A formal guddali puja was performed at the excavation site on Dec. 10 by officials of Archaeology Department and over 40 workers are now engaged in cleaning the sites that have been earmarked for excavation.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, Department Director T. Venkatesh said that the Department had begun excavations in 2010 as part of its regular and seasonal activities. For some reason, the excavation works were stalled and now the works have started as the Department has received the green signal for excavations from Archaeological Survey of India (ASI).

Enabling Employability

The need for and importance of raising the skill set in the economically productive sections of the nation's population, estimated as more than three-fourths of its total headcount have just been bestowed focussed attention by the incumbent governments, both at the centre and a few states, including Karnataka. The much delayed change in the mindset of the powers that be in the matter of skills that nationally generate wealth in the form of goods and services accounting for the country's Gross Domestic Product (GDP), expressed in monetary terms, may have been triggered by the often publicised opinion in the industry circles that a majority of the youth graduating from the nation's colleges and Universities in all streams of knowledge namely science, humanities, commerce, engineering, management and so on don't posses skills at levels of passing the employability norms.

Despite the compulsions of working with tools and materials that bear no resemblance to their modern features such as equipment marked by precision and performing tasks beyond human capability, particularly lifting and moving massive loads to dizzy heights, the land's people of a distant past stand testimony for their skills, sense of perfection and commitment through their sculptures and structures that have stood intact over several centuries.

Considering the magnitude of the ingredients, both concrete and abstract, that need to be taken into account at macro as well as micro levels in the National task of taking the skill levels of the steadily expanding population, the first two initial baby steps as it were before kick-starting action are marked by (a) Blue print of the programme and (b) Prioritising the areas, in order to avoid straying into blind avenues of the task and diluting the use of resources and effort. While urgency of making a start is unquestionable, the teams that are assigned the responsibility of expediting the task must be protected from the vicious elements of the land's political class.

The attributes of aptitude and ability to grasp the nuances of myriad skills, traced to the country's rural areas merit heightened attention in order to address the issue of unemployment while the urban scenario is likely to dominate in the matter of empowering the youth for greater employability.

Crazy 'Gold Man'

Vietnam: A Vietnamese businessman's craze for gold has been attracting a lot of attention on Asian social media sites. 36-year-old Tran Ngoc Phuc wears a total of 13kg of gold wherever he goes, and is always accompanied by at least five bodyguards who make sure that no one tries to steal it.

While some people expressed their doubts that the jewels are real gold. The businessman admitted that wearing the jewellery took some getting used to , but claimed that it was worth it as all the gold has boosted his good luck and prosperity.

Tran Ngoc Phuc said that his current collection consists of a 5kg gold chain and medallion, two large bracelets weighing 5kg each, four 500g rings and a gold waistband.

All together they weigh 13kg and are worth $550,000. The businessman admitted that wearing the jewellery took some getting used to , but claimed that it was worth it as all the gold has boosted his good luck and prosperity.

Controversial tattoo!

New York: A photo of a tattooed man's hand with the top layer if skin damaged by a minor kitchen burn has sparked online controversy because the section where the skin was burned off revealed a tattoo so bright you could swear it was just inked.

The photo reportedly shows the hand who had just suffered a minor burn which only affected the top layer of his skin, exposing the dermis. The man had a blue rose tattooed on his skin a while ago, and like all tattoos do in time, it had started to fade. However, the patch of burned skin that had peeled off because of the burn revealed a much more vibrant copy of the same tattoo on his dermis.

Apparently, tattoo guns reach deep into the skin, and while the tattoos on the first layer begin to fade just months after they've been inked due to multiple factors, they remain vibrant under this first layer of protective skin.

Hope for Men with Azoospermia!

The general perception is that if the man produces semen it always contains sperms. This is not true. Unfortunately a number of men coming to Gunasheela Fertility Centre even refuse a semen test with this assumption. There are instances where the man is able to produce semen but it does not contain any sperms. Azoospermia is a condition where there are no sperms in the ejaculated semen. There are two types - Obstructive Azoospermia and Non-Obstructive Azoospermia.

In Obstructive Azoospermia there will be normal sperm production in the testis but there is obstruction to the flow of sperms at various levels.

Dr. Devika Gunasheela

The blockage could be anywhere between the testis and the urethra (urine passage). Infection, injury or surgery (for hernia or hydrocele) of the genital tract may result in this condition. As a result there will be no sperms in the ejaculated semen. The blockage can be bypassed by surgery or sperms obtained using a fine needle directly from the testis. Sperms are retrieved in almost 100% of patients. These sperms can then be used for injecting the wife's eggs in a procedure called IVF – ICSI.

In Non-Obstructive Azoospermia there is a problem with production of sperms in the testis. The exact cause is not known in most of the cases but Radiation, Chemotherapy, Mumps infection in childhood, Hormonal deficiencies may result in this condition. A new procedure known as Micro dissection Testicular Sperm Extraction (Micro – TESE) is used to retrieve sperms so that these men can have their own biologic child. Using Micro-TESE sperms can be obtained in upto 60% of these patients.

The sperms obtained by either technique are used in a procedure called IVF-ICSI (test-tube baby). The pregnancy rate from this technique is similar to that achieved in IVF-ICSI using normally ejaculated sperms. Many patients have been treated this way successfully and we have had the first baby in the state with the Micro-TESE surgical procedure.

Picture worth a thousand words !

Sir,

What a shocking picture of 'Tiger' parked right below the 'No Parking' board ! (SOM dated Dec.10). It also proves the proverb that there is darkness below the candle light !

Coincidentally, the very same topic was discussed at the MGP monthly meeting on Dec.9. The guest, Traffic Police Inspector C.V. Ravi (replacing the earlier announced guest Dr. Vikram Amathe, DCP-Crime and Traffic) evaded a direct question about the operation of 'Tigers' without any control and responsibilities. He simply said that the same operation exists all over the country. No scope for improvement?

Some members even cited the issue having been presented to the earlier City Police Commissioner B. Dayananda, who had agreed in principle to put into operation a system of involving shop owners at the spot of 'No Parking' sign to inform vehicle users about their vehicle being lifted to the nearby or faraway Police Station. The feeling in such a situation is terrible. It generates anxiety and blood pressure as one does not know if the vehicle is stolen. How should one guess?

This situation was explained to the then Commissioner, suggesting to install an info box at each and every 'No Parking' sign post and paint the phone number to be contacted in case the vehicle is found missing.

A lot has been written about the lopsided 'No Parking' and towing policy implementation in these columns but nothing seems to stir the Traffic Police Department. I hope the picture in SOM makes a difference to the situation. Is DCP Dr. Vikram Amathe seeing the picture? Will he please intervene at least now?

KSOU Marks Card Scam

Probe handed over to Audit and Accounts Department, says G.T. Devegowda

Ramada

G.T. Devegowda

Bengaluru, Dec.12- An audit probe has been ordered into various scams at Karnataka State Open University (KSOU) including the purchase of marks cards. The Karnataka State Audit and Accounts Department has been requested to conduct a probe, said Higher Education Minister G.T. Devegowda (GTD).

The Minister was replying to an unmarked question by MLA Ramdas at the ongoing Assembly session at Belagavi. Ramdas had asked the government about the action taken on certain scams that have been noted by Justice Bhakthavatsala Committee and the compliance report submitted by the KSOU to Audit and Accounts Department and the Auditor General's Office.

Replying to the questions raised by Ramdas in writing, Minister GTD has stated that following Justice Bhakthavatsala Committee report, Karnataka Governor, who is the Chancellor of Universities, had directly asked the KSOU to submit a compliance report.

FIRs have been registered at Jayalakshmipuram Police Station against former Vice-Chancellors of KSOU and certain other authorities who were at the helm of KSOU and the cases are still being investigated.

Also, a Departmental probe is underway to recover the money that has been siphoned off from the KSOU, the Minster stated.

Further, the Minister said that a probe has been ordered where the Audit and Accounts Department will investigate the purchase of 20 lakh marks cards at a cost of Rs. 6.30 crore.

The services of over 22 lecturers have been confirmed against the University rules and all of them are drawing UGC salary. Even this report has been submitted to the Governor for action, the Minister stated.

The State Government has not formed any new rules for KSOU to offer technical, health and music courses and such courses could be offered after the mandatory clearance from regulatory authorities like University Grants Commission (UGC), All India Council for Technical Education (AICTE) and Medical Council of India (MCI), GTD stated.

Like the Universities of Bangalore, Mysore, Kuvempu, Mangalore and Karnataka, even KSOU can conduct distance education courses — with the permission from the UGC — at its various regional centres. Permission has been sought from the Governor to issue convocation certificates to KSOU students who have completed distance education courses during 2013-2014 and 2014-2015. The Governor has asked or some clarifications from the government in this regard, the Minister stated.

In this week's Pet Talk, Maneka tells how to identify urination tract infection in cats and about relocation of stray animals.

Pet Talk

Maneka Gandhi

What is urination tract infection in cats? How do I identify and treat it?

Signs, that your cat is suffering through urination tract infection, are as follows:

1. Straining to urinate: Bladder inflammation is the most common cause of lower urinary tract disease in cats. This inflammation, in turn, can lead to straining when urinating. It can eventually even lead to more severe and emergency type of situations, like the formation of stones in the bladder, or the formation of a urethral plug, which is a life-threatening condition that causes the cat (almost always male) to become "blocked" (unable to urinate).

2. Frequent attempts to urinate: Cats with urinary tract disease often urinate an abnormal amount of times each day because little to no urination is being evacuated each time. This is obviously very frustrating and also dangerous for the cat, because when a cat is blocked it is unable to rid itself of bodily toxic waste products through its urine.

3. Painful Urination: The pain associated with urinary tract disease may be so severe that some cats will lick their penile or vaginal area (or at times the abdominal area) as a way to try and self-soothe. Cats with urinary tract disease may also be more irritable than usual.

4. Blood in urine: Cats with urinary tract disease will often have urine which is blood-tinged or discoloured. Females are at greater risk for urinary tract infections, that lead to blood in the urine, than are males.

5. Urinating outside the litter box: Urinating outside of the litter box is not always a medical issue, but you should be concerned of it, especially when combined with any of the earlier mentioned symptoms.

If your cat is having trouble urinating, and displaying other signs, take her to the vet as soon as possible. Your vet will give her a physical exam and collect urine samples. Blood work, x-rays, and abdominal ultrasound may also be recommended for diagnosis.

Most cases improve without medical treatment, but the symptoms can recur. Though they may not be life-threatening to your cat, they can be uncomfortable, so treatment can improve her overall quality of life. While the treatment depends on the underlying cause, it is always beneficial to increase your cat's water intake. Maintaining a healthy weight, feeding her canned food and encouraging her to use her litter box can also help. However, certain conditions simply cannot be treated at home. Bacterial cystitis should be treated with antibiotics, while stones must be surgically removed.

My wife is pregnant. Is my cat's litter box dangerous for my wife during pregnancy?

If a cat consumes raw meat and hunts outside, it might contract a protozoan called Toxoplasma gondii. This causes a disease called toxoplasmosis. For healthy adults, it is like flu but, when a mother becomes infected with toxoplasmosis during her pregnancy, her unborn child can become infected with toxoplasmosis via the placenta. This can lead to foetal death.

Cats that become infected with toxoplasmosis shed the organism in their faeces for a short period of time. Even if your cat is shedding the organism, it takes a minimum of 48 hours for the oocysts to become infective. Cleaning the litter box daily prevents transmission. Use of proper hygienic practices can prevent infection. It is advisable that someone else cleans your cat's litter box. If at all your wife 'has' to change the litter box, she should wear gloves.

Keeping your cat indoors is a good way to prevent your cat from becoming infected with toxoplasmosis. Also, avoid feeding your cat raw meat and do not allow your cat to hunt. These practices will remove the possibility of exposure of your cat to toxoplasmosis.

What do I do when I see an injured cow or horse on the road?

Unlike the case of an injured cat or dog, an injured cow or horse can cause much more damage to you, if threatened. Do not, under any circumstances, directly approach the animal. First, call for back up. Call an animal aid and ask them for directions. Explain to them the situation. By the time they arrive, try to provide the wounded animal, with water (possibly in a bucket) to calm it down. A horse's hind legs are very strong, so try not to scare it as its kick can be lethal. In case a calf is wounded, do not try to take it away from its mother, she might charge at you.

You can apply simple first aid, if you gain the animal's trust. Begin with patting the animal, let it know that you're a friend. Offer it food. Washing the wound and providing the wounded animal with a place to sit — on a mat or a straw bed — would be helpful. Stay with the animal and offer reassurance till animal aid arrives.

My neighbours beat the stray animals on the road. How do I convince them to stop?

You should calmly approach your neighbours and explain to them that, what they are doing to those helpless creatures is illegal and inhuman. After all, where should they go? No street animals will cause them any harm if they are left alone. It is not difficult to coexist with animals; they just have to be indifferent to their presence. You should educate them that according to the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960, inflicting pain to stray animals is a crime, and an FIR under Section 428/429 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) can be lodged against them. If they dismiss your pleas, you should seek help from an animal aid organisation.

Is relocation of stray animals from a locality, in the name of safety of residents, legal?

As per Indian law, street dogs cannot be relocated or dislocated from the area to where they belong. The Animal Birth Control (Dogs) Rules, 2001, enacted under the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960, stray dogs can be sterilized, vaccinated, and then returned back to their original locations.

Relocating stray animals from a locality does not solve the issue of increasing dog population. More dogs will move in to the locality, breed and produce more pups. Furthermore, relocation also increases the occurrences of fights, between new and old dogs, which can be dangerous for humans. The answer to this problem is organizing sterilization drives, which requires coordination between the RWA of a locality and an animal aid organization.

Am I bad pet owner if I leave my pet alone at home during work? Where can I leave him?

We understand the guilt you feel when you look at the sad eyes with which your furry companion looks at you when you are leaving for work. First of all, ensure that when you leave your pet alone, he/she should have access to food, water and a place to pee and poo.

Most cats do not mind being left alone for long hours, during work. However, they should not be left alone for very long, because cats too are social animals that need interaction. Also, leaving cats alone for too long could also mean damage to your furniture.

It is not advisable to leave adult dogs alone for more than 8 hours. Young puppies under 6 months of age can't be left alone for more than 2 hours.

You should house train your pets so that they do not develop separation anxiety. They should know that it is okay to be alone. It is a good idea to tire out your pets before leaving them, so that they fall asleep eventually. Provide them with puzzle treats to keep them busy and entertained.

Most dogs will sleep through the night, if you have a night shift. The best possible solution is to leave them under supervision. You could leave them at a pet crèche or hire someone to keep them during the day. Or even better, get two dogs or two cats so that they can keep each other company.

Tiger pays up for 'standing' under No Parking Zone

Mysuru, Dec. 12- Two days after a social media user uploaded a picture of a private towing vehicle (Tiger) parked in a 'No Parking' Zone on Krishna Vilas Road bang in front of Devaraja Traffic Police Station, Assistant Commissioner of Police (Traffic) G.N. Mohan has fined the driver for the offence.

It may be recalled here that on Dec. 10, Star of Mysore had published a report "No Parking Rule Does Not Apply To This Tiger!" where it was highlighted how Policemen break the law and if the same law is broken by the public how they are fined and made to run from pillar to post to get their vehicle released.

The photograph of this particular Tiger was clicked on Dec. 8 evening by S.R. Sumanth and he uploaded the same in social media where netizens have commented that law does not apply to Tigers, leaving the Police red faced.

Not taking lightly the violation especially by a Tiger that tows away vehicles unannounced, netizens had questioned how Police could allow this under their very nose. They demanded immediate action against violators.

One netizen Vijay Sri has said: "The Tiger cannot just park at No Parking Zone. They can even take up the entire sidewalk, putting pedestrians at risk of having to walk in traffic." N.N. Girish said, "This is because the Police have to get one more Tiger to tow this. Then the Police have to fine themselves and get it released!"

ACP Mohan thanked Sumanth for bringing the violation to the notice of the Police. He said when surfing his social media account, he found this post by Sumanth and action was taken against the offender. It is a private vehicle assisting the Police Department in lifting vehicles, especially two-wheelers, from No Parking Zones.

The driver was taken to task for his brazen attitude for parking the vehicle under the No Parking board. He has been fined Rs. 100 and has been warned of strict action if he repeats the violation. People can bring such traffic violations to the notice of Police by posting pictures on http://mysorecity-police.gov.in/ for action.

The Rotary Journey:

To S. Korea and Japan — 4

The world is a book and those who do not travel read only one page."

—St. Augustine

My first introduction to Japan as a student was through Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose. His dramatic escape from India to Germany and then to Japan was indeed a stuff that would leave any student wonderstruck and in those days of early independence, inspire to be bold and patriotic like him. General K.S. Thimayya's brother Samudragupta, as we in Madikeri knew him, had served in the Indian National Army (INA) of Subhas Chandra Bose and it was a matter of pride for we students then.

Afterwards, I was exposed to the extraordinary qualities of discipline, creativity and hard-work of Japanese when I saw a Kannada film. There was a scene where a Japanese family was travelling in the train. They buy two sugarcane stalks and enjoy eating them. The rind of the sugarcane, leftover after chewing it, was collected and made into small baskets using their entrepreneurial skill in handicrafts. When they alight from the train, they sell it and make some money. This was an eloquent demonstration of the skill and imagination of Japanese people to earn even from things we consider a waste. Of course, earlier too I had heard of Japan for a tragic reason — the destruction of Hiroshima and Nagasaki with the atomic bombs dropped by Americans in the World War II.

When I think of Japan, I also think of our first Air Chief Marshal Subroto Mukherjee, who about 58 years ago died in Tokyo getting choked with a fish bone in his throat.

A temple in Narita.

Be that as it may, it was a short flight across the Sea of Japan from Seoul to Narita International Airport, Tokyo. From the Land of Smiling People, as South Korea is also known, to the Land of the Rising Sun, Japan.

In 1989, with very limited foreign exchange in my pocket, I had literally starved in Japan. But this time I was lucky for two reasons. Our Rotary group had enough money in foreign exchange to splurge and our travel agent, Thomas Cook, had thoughtfully arranged our lunch and dinner in Indian hotels on all the seven days we stayed in Japan.

Our Guide, a lady with an extraordinary lung-power and her own brand of english language, told us that Japan was a country that remained in isolation for nearly 500 years, not allowing any boat or ship to anchor or land on its beaches. Thus Japan was virtually isolated from the rest of the world until 1868, when the emperor himself led a movement to Industrialise and Westernise the country. (On the lines of Mustafa Kemal Ataturk, 1881-1938, of Turkey, who as its President, not only Secularised but also Westernised the country). Till then, Japan probably was 200 years behind Europe in development. But within 100 years, it had become the world's third nation in terms of total production after United States and Russia.

Compare this to India. We are just about 30 years to touch 100 years after independence and where are we in terms of roads, bridges, transport, infrastructure, public facilities and industrialisation. If speed is the secret of success in love and war, I guess, speed is also the secret of success in implementing projects and development of a country.

It is said, Japan's wealth came mainly from its ability to supply the world with good quality goods at a cheap rate. I was told by a Japanese industrialist, who was here in Mysuru for two years some years back, that Japan is among the leaders of the world in ship building and vehicle production. To this, we can also add electronic products. I think Japan was the first country to manufacture Bullet Train which has shrunk the travel time between major industrial centres.

We landed at Narita International Airport, which is two hours drive away from Tokyo if there is no traffic. However, we decided to stay for the night at a hotel in Narita — the name Mystays Premier.

In 1989 when I went to Japan, we straight away drove to Tokyo from Narita Airport. It was a wonderful drive because of good roads and scenery and the panoramic view on either side of the road that is green and unmatched. At that time, we were dropped at the Ginza Dai-Ichi Hotel, a Five Star Hotel in the old part of Tokyo city, which had five lifts and five escalators in its massive lobby. The Japanese touch and the Japanese people could be felt and seen all over the hotel where even to see a speck of dust one needed a magnifying glass.

Excavations will be led by Principal Investigator Prof. N.S. Krishnamurthy and assisted by Dy. Director of Archaeology Department Gavisiddaiah. The task will focus on remains of weapons, equipment, gold coins that were used as currency during Ganga period. The initial estimate of the excavation is Rs. 5 lakh and the entire work will be completed by March, Venkatesh said.

Excavation will be concentrated at Dodda Thopu, Keerthinarayana Temple, Maruleshwara Temple and Chowdeshwari Temple. "We are engaging over 40 workers to clean the excavation sites and they are employed under Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee (MGNREGA) scheme. The sites will be cleaned and the excavation locations will be marked. The process will be supervised by experts," Venkatesh added.

"When the excavation project was initially started in 2010, archaeologists got many leads regarding the existence of various tools and equipment used by Gangas. The present excavation will focus on Temples and the Basadis. This apart, there are six burial sites and an embankment wall that helped protect locals from flooding of River Cauvery," he said.

The masonry embankment wall is nearly 10 ft. thick, 15 ft. high and extends to almost 100 ft and was built by the Gangas. The structure saved the southern portion of Talakad from submergence till 16th century AD.

Talakad is located on the banks of River Cauvery and is about 48 km from Mysuru. It was the capital of Gangas and the region was ruled by Cholas, Hoysalas, Vijayanagar rulers and the Wadiyars of Mysuru.

Veena concert by Vidushi M.K. Saraswathi at Andal Mandiram on Saturday

Mysuru, Dec.12- Sree Andal Mandiram Trust has organised Smt. Shantha Narasimhan Memorial veena concert by Karnataka Kalashree Vidushi M. K. Saraswathi on Saturday (Dec. 15) at 6 pm at the Trust premises on Temple Road, V.V. Mohalla.

Profile: Rare is the case where the names of the artiste and their instrument have a metaphorical significance. However, on beholding M.K. Saraswathi on-stage and hearing the divine music resonating from her veena, one can only conclude that the two are made for each other !

Saraswathi is a veena player par excellence and an A-Top grade artiste of Akashavani and Doordarshan. She also regularly performs concerts at prestigious locations all over India.

Her music recordings are in wide circulation, carrying the authentic sound of the Mysore Veena all over the globe.

Saraswathi hails from a rich musical lineage. She was initiated into music at a young age by her musician mother, Kamalamma, under the keen guidance of her father M.K. Srinivasa Iyengar, a connoisseur of classical arts whose deep ambition was to see the tender talent excel at different art forms while also having a sound footing in literature.

Later, she received advanced training from Dr. Gowri Kuppuswamy, a renowned disciple of the legendary MLV and from Veena Maestro M.J. Srinivasa Iyengar, a senior disciple of Veena Venkatagiriyappa who in turn was a direct disciple of the great Mysore Veene Seshanna. She is thus an embodiment of the legendary GNB and Saint Thyagaraja paramparas.

Vidu. M. K. Saraswathi

She, in turn, is passing on the wealth of art and knowledge to the younger generations through her music school. Under her able and meticulous guidance, several young talents have blossomed into Vidwats and graded artistes of AIR and DD. One of her remarkable achievements was to develop a group of absolute beginners into advanced Veena players in just one year !

Her musical heritage is well-continued by her daughter Rajyashree Josyer Shrikanth, who is well-known for both vocal and veena performances and her son Vid. G. Venkatesha Josyer, a renowned violinist.

Major Awards in recognition of her Lifetime contribution to Music are: Karnataka Kalashri by Karnataka Sangeetha Nrithya Academy - 2006; Senior Fellowship Award by Central Government of India – 1999; Honoured under the Guru-Shishya Parampara Scheme of Central Government to preserve Veena Parampara of Mysore – 2005; Ananya Puraskara, Bangalore – 2004; Vainika Brahma by Nadabrahma Sangeetha Sabha – 2014; Swaralaya Shrunga by Suswaralaya College of Music and Gandharva Vidyanidhi by D. Wonder Boy's Wonderful Music

By Dr. Padmavathi Narasimhan

Eleven-year-old child prodigy Rahul Vellal is a YouTube sensation. But there is more to his music than what we see of his song videos in YouTube. It is a wonder how music is a way of life for this child even when their parents have no background in music. The effort and care this child puts in to hit the higher gamakas pronouncing each word with so much clarity is amazing.

Raaga Music Academy organised his concert at Nadabrahma Sangeetha Sabha on the 3rd Saturday of November. The hall was packed to see this wonder boy perform. Rahul created an out-of-the-world experience yet again with his two-hour concert. A striking feature of the lad's concert is his imposing confidence. He sings without the least trepidation. His rendition was impeccable, pronunciation in each composition perfect and the sangatis fell in their place. Take for example, 'Devadi deva Shri Vasudeva' by Mysuru Vasudevacharya. The kriti was prefixed with a beautiful Alapana, there was a linear development of sangatis in the composition and the kalpana swaras developed for the pallavi part had all the characteristic phrases woven admirably. The subtle gamakas and flashing brighas in the Alapana of the very popular 'Nagumomu ganaleni' by Tyagaraja suited the occasion and the audience, who clapped in ecstasy when the composition was taken. The influence of Balamurali Krishna on the lad in the rendering of the composition was evident, especially in the choice of neraval at "Jagamele paramatma Everito moralidudu' (Oh Rama! Ruler of the world! Who else can I appeal to? Please shun disregard and take me into your fold!). How a lad of eleven can sing the sahitya with so much bhava remains a puzzle. His parents have rightly named him Rahul, the conqueror. He has conquered the hearts of all music-lovers around the globe.

Senior violinist Nalina Mohan smilingly accompanied the young artiste, affectionately accepting his challenges.

Young Nikshit Puttur on mridanga and Raghunandan on ghata gave a brilliant taniyavartanam, soon after which a series of requests rushed in to Rahul, out of which the first was, of course, 'Brahma Okate Para Brahma Okate' (Annamacharya), for which he has more than 6 million followers in YouTube.

Other inclusions in the concert were 'Nammamma Sharade' in Hamsadhwani in the beginning of the concert, 'Tambooro Meetidava' by Purandara Dasa in Sindhu Bhairavi, 'Nandatanaya Govindana Bhajipuda nandavada mithayi' in Yaman Kalyani and the concluding thillana in Kadanakutoohala.

Resounding hop from 'Calypsos' to 'Kangaroos'

Our boys flew 'Down Under' after a seemingly insipid and avoidable series against the Calypsos. Recalling the mighty Windies over decades from the 60s, one wonders if they will ever build to their past strengths at all. Though our boys had a few hiccups, the Windies proved much below par in all the three formats.

Our boys carried the euphoria to 'Down Under.' We cannot forget that the OZs sans Smith and Warner is lacklustre. The 'T-20' series should have gone our way 2-0 — but for the washed out match at Melbourne. Duckworth-Lewis formulae remain as unpopular as they were when it started. Not the best brains have been able to get the logics.

Coming to the test series, congratulations to our boys for the victory at Adelaide Oval. A victory in the very first test gives the much needed confidence going forward. We should indeed win the series. From the viewpoints of protagonists, it is relevant to examine the following facts.

1. K.L. Rahul factor is worrisome. Mike Atherton at the 'Oval Test' commented thus about KLR: "How can a batsman of the caliber of Rahul be so inconsistent"? KLR scored a blazing 149 at the Oval; after a series of failures earlier on the English tour. Worries seem to continue down-under too; as he is unable to make a mark. After scoring 44, he was out to a poor stroke.

2. Both KLR and Murali Vijay are lucky that the vacuum in 1&2 continue to stare at the selectors. Murali is simply not competent to hold the place any more — with his tendency to play 7th stick outside of his off-stump. Ironically, all our best batsmen were out in the 1st innings playing the 7th stick.

3. On a flat-track like Adelaide Oval, we should have looked at over 400 in the 1st innings to have the OZs on the mat. That perhaps would have created a better edge than a 31 runs victory against a depleted side.

4. Visibly, our boys had butterflies in the stomach when Starc, Cummins and Lyon combination was heading towards the target. And that does not speak well of our bowling acumen.

5. Strange that none of the OZ batsmen was able to get a century in their own backyard on a flat track.

6. Between Ashwin and Lyon, the 'Off-Spin' technique was used very wisely by Lyon — as the best of our boys in Virat, Rahane, Pujara and Rohit virtually danced to the catenary of Lyon's flighted deliveries. Ashwin did get wickets — but was not unplayable.

7. Importantly, our pacers need to sharpen abilities to bowl 'Yorkers' and 'Slower Ones.' Though all the three did a great job, far too many were sprayed out-side of the stumps.

8. Last but none the least, Virat's euphoria over victories need to be balanced. Especially, banging the ball on to the turf looks very awkward and uncultured. For the reputation he has built across cricketing world, he needs to handle victories with dignity.

Best of luck to the boys as they go to Perth to play on a new pitch. Surely, it will carry pace and bounce as did the earlier one. Rohit will be too happy to bat on such track.

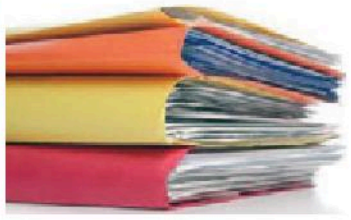
WORD OF THE DAY

Dossier

Pronunciation: DOSS-yay.



Meaning: A file containing detailed records on a particular person or subject.

Origin: Gather together various documents relating to the affairs of a certain individual, sort them into separate folders, label the spine of each folder, and arrange the folders in a box. Dossier, the French word for such a compendium of spine-labeled folders, was picked up by English speakers in the 19th century. It comes from dos, the French word for "back." The verb endorse (which originally meant "to write on the back of") and the rare adjective addorsed ("set or turned back to back," a term primarily used in heraldry) are also derived, via the Anglo-French endosser and French adosser respectively, from dos. The French dos has its origins in the Latin dorsum, a word which also gave English the adjective dorsal ("situated on the back"), as in "the dorsal fin of a whale.

Example: A firm of detectives produced a dossier on his activities.

THE ODD WORD

Deracinate

To tear something up by the roots.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Doff your hat

Meaning: Raise your hat in acknowledgement of or deference to another.

Origin: Doffing seems to be an activity that is limited to hats or caps; it isn't often that we hear the verb used in any other connection. That needn't be the case though, as becomes apparent when one realises the connection between 'doffing' and 'donning'. Shakespeare was fond of the word 'doff' and used it frequently, often in a figurative manner, which alludes both to the removal of clothes and of opinions. Hat doffing was an accompaniment to bowing and the depth of the bow determined how far the hat was lifted. When the wearer bowed to an acquaintance, the hat lifted itself, rotated once and lowered again. The hats didn't catch on. As Shakespeare might have put it - it was a daft idea.

Example: To doff your hat is when (usually) a man takes off his hat briefly as a sign of respect, for example to a woman.

Charity event in aid of Sneha Kiran of Mysore Spastic Society

Dedicated to the rehabilitation of children affected by Cerebral Palsy (CP) and developmental disabilities is Sneha Kiran of Mysore Spastic Society. Cerebral Palsy being a neurological damage that occurs to the developing brain that happens during the initial years of the child life leads to permanent physical, communication and learning problems for the child.

A child with CP requires constant intervention of Physio-Occupational Therapy, Speech Therapy and training on skills required to make day to day life easier and more manageable.

Sneha Kiran is a unique centre that provides all the necessary services for these children "under one roof" in the city of Mysuru.

Every child at Sneha Kiran is provided with Physio-Occupational and Speech Therapy, Special Education and Pre-Vocational Training, Sensory Stimulation to help increase awareness of their surroundings, academic inputs based on their abilities and Assistive Technology as an aid to help students with severe physical impairments to access computers and technology. Family support through counselling and guidance are also provided for children and families struggling to cope with the challenges faced.

All these require funding as families cannot bear the burden of facilities for their multiple-disabled child. The centre is constantly in need of support from individuals and corporates to sustain and further develop the much needed services provided to these special need children.

As part of its fund-raising effort to sustain and develop its services, Sneha Kiran is organising a dinner-cum-entertainment programme, "KRISTAANJALI," a dance-drama by the special children of Sneha Kiran in collaboration with the students of Shri Ganesha Sangeetha Nrityalaya Charitable Trust, on Dec.16 (Sunday) from 6 pm onwards at St. Philomena's Indoor Stadium, Bannimantap, Mysuru.

For Sneha Kiran service details and programme entry passes, contact Mob: 98440-43965 or 93434-66664 or e-mail: snehakiranmysore@gmail.com or visit website: www.mysorespasticsociety.com
